

Educational and facilities offerings for formal visits to the Huyck Preserve

At Huyck Preserve, part of our mission is environmental education. Field-based learning experiences are often profoundly meaningful in furthering students' sense of environmental stewardship and scientific literacy. As one of the oldest biological research stations in the country, Huyck Preserve is a uniquely special location of hands-on scientific learning

Programs are tailored to your class's age group and learning level. On-site housing is available for over-night visits. Classrooms and meeting space are available for renting for your own programs

Please contact the Huyck Preserve office for more information on available programs or to schedule your visit (518-797-3440), dawn@huyckpreserve.org
